WEEKLY REFLECTION

"Wisdom is bright and does not grow dim.
By those who love her she is readily seen and found by those who look for her."

In today's Gospel, the parable of the ten bridesmaids —five wise, five foolish— waiting for the bridegroom. Note the uniqueness of this parable from the other teachings and parables of the Lord about the end-times, all of which exhorts vigilance or watchfulness. But in this parable, all ten bridesmaids, both the sensible and foolish, fall asleep.

The difference between the two categories is not intelligence or social status. The difference is the extra supply of oil. The wise have brought extra oil; the foolish have not. When the cry goes up at midnight, "The bridegroom is here! Go out and meet him!", only those who have prepared can enter the wedding feast. The Gospel text today offers us the meaning of preparedness, being vigilant.

The Gospel is clear: "You know neither the day nor the hour."
The only adequate preparation is to live already as the Bridegroom has arrived, that the wedding feast is underway—keeping the lamp of faith burning with the oil of a life ordered toward Christ. Our greatest mistake is that we have forgotten that the city of God is built by those who keep oil in their lamps: the oil of mercy, of fidelity to the small duties of daily life, of silent prayer, living our faith actively in worship, hope, and fidelity that no chatbot can generate, of love that refuses to treat persons as data points.

Let us always and all the time be seeking the wisdom that is resplendent and unfading, the wisdom that sits by the gate at dawn. Let us keep oil in our lamps—not the oil of mere information, but the oil of charity, of sacramental life, of quiet fidelity.

For the Bridegroom is coming. And when He comes, no maths or science will open the door. Only the heart that has learned to wait in love will enter the feast. May the Lord grant us that wisdom which surpasses all human knowledge—and which no artificial intelligence will ever possess. Amen.

Let us keep oil in our lamps not the oil of mere information, but the oil of charity, of sacramental life, of quiet fidelity.

PESTA K.A.M.I – CAMPUS EDITION 2026

“Take courage! I have overcome the world.” (John 16:33)

Where can young people find courage amid the pressures and uncertainties of campus life?

Pesta K.A.M.I – Campus Edition 2026 invites Catholic university and college students to discover the courage that comes from remaining in the presence of Christ.

Join students from across the Archdiocese for a day of prayer, formation, fellowship and the celebration of the Holy Eucharist.

We will be joined by Brother Jean-Patrick of the Taizé Community, who will provide formation on prayer and lead a contemplative prayer experience together with a team of young people.
The prayer will include Scripture, meditative chants, silence and Adoration.
